

Forcing Narcissus 'Soleil d'Or'

Great for forcing, this tender 'Paperwhite' not only brings delightful sweet fragrance to your winter table, but bright color as well, with 10 to 20 flowers sporting golden petals and short orange cups on each 12-14" stem. Blooms in 6 to 10 weeks when forced indoors.

Narcissus, forcing PAPERWHITES

Potted Paperwhites bring intoxicating fragrance to your home in winter, and make wonderful holiday gifts. Bears trusses of heavily-scented, pure white flowers on up to three stems per bulb. They may be planted in all kinds of decorative pots, vases and trays, either in soil or pebbles, September through February.

Place the bulbs about 1" apart and cover 2/3 of the bulb with stones, marbles or pebbles, or completely cover the bulbs with potting soil. Water, then place them in a light, cool place in indirect sunlight until the foliage stands 3" to 4" high. Move to a sunny location at room temperature and keep them well watered. They will bloom in four to six weeks from planting. If not potting immediately, store bulbs in a dry, dark spot at 50 to 60 degrees Fahrenheit.
